Executive Protection in the Digital Age: Stories From the Field

The digital and physical lives of executives and their families are increasingly targeted by sophisticated adversaries, creating an expanded attack surface that poses a direct threat to corporate infrastructure.
In this talk, BlackCloak's Neil Gallardo, a foremost expert on personal privacy and cybersecurity, will explore threat actors' methods for exploiting personal vulnerabilities and facilitating corporate breaches. He'll provide real-world examples of attacks on executives that have led to significant data breaches, highlighting the urgent need for a fundamental shift in corporate cybersecurity strategy.
He'll also discuss how enterprises are adapting to this new normal and the proactive measures that can help secure executives' personal digital lives. He'll offer attendees actionable insights for implementing holistic cybersecurity frameworks that seamlessly integrate digital executive protection into the organization's broader security posture.
Attend this talk to learn how to fortify your organization against modern threats by addressing the critical link between your leaders' personal security and the protection of your corporate assets.
